OHIO WILL FIGHT USE OF LAKE WATER

CHICAGO'S DRAINAGE CANAL TO BE PUT OUT OF BUSINESS

If Request of Attorney General Crabbe Is Granted To Allow The State of Ohio To Become a Party To The Suit Filed By The State of Wisconsin In The U. S. Supreme Court Forbidding The City of Chicago To Continue To Use and Divert The Water of Lake Michigan Into the Drainage Canal.

Great Lakes at Chicago, moreover, has an important bearing on the Great Lakes St. Lawrence deep waterway project to which Ohio is committed for it is apparent that there is in Canada very general sentiment against going forward with the St. Lawrence route unless the Chicago lake water diversion is stopped."

PROMINENT MEN PARTICIPATED IN WILD ORGY

Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 5, (UP).—Mr. "X" a prominent Dayton business man together with a couple of Mr. "Blanks" and a Mr. "H" all of whom are said to have been participants in a ten-day revelry with Beatrice Louise Walsh, since Labor day of this year, were entered into the defense Monday morning of the sensational divorce case against Nicholas Walsh Jr., Cincinnati, millionaire.

A deposition of Mr. "X's" testimony in regard to the alleged round of pleasure which left a trail from Dayton, Ohio, to Dayton, Kentucky, and said to have included liquor parties, boxing matches, roadhouses and poker parties, was introduced in court by attorneys for the defense, immediately after counsel for the plaintiff rested their case before Judge Roland W. Baggott.

LONG FLIGHTS OVER THE WEST AND NORTHWEST

Airmen Traveled 20,000 Miles and Made 600 Photographs of Parks.

Dayton, O., Oct. 5 (UP).—Lieutenant John A. MacReady and Captain A. W. Stevens, premier camera man of the U. S. air service returned Monday after a flight of 20,000 miles in an airplane, which took them over the west and northwest.

During the flight they made 3,600 photographs of the national park system. They also made photos of every landing field on the air mail routes and the emergency fields and all other landing fields.

From these photographs there will be constructed an aerial map of the system west of Chicago. At no time during the 200-hours they were in the air did they encounter any trouble.

On one occasion Stevens attempted to make a photograph of a mirage. What the plates will show of this strange phenomenon is awaited with more than ordinary interest because of its rarity. So far as is known this is the first time a mirage has ever been photographed.

CAMP SHERMAN HOSPITAL WILL BE IMPROVED

Veterans' Bureau Has About 3,000 Acres and Part to be Used for Farming.

Washington, Oct. 5 (UP)—Extensive improvements in the Veterans' Bureau hospital at Chillicothe will be started as soon as an appropriation is available for the work.

Government architects are just now studying plans for improving the laundry and ice plant at the hospital and for building porches for convalescent soldiers. All temporary buildings will be made fireproof and improved as fast as money for the work can be made available.

While 11,000 acres of Camp Sherman that was held by the Veterans' Bureau is turned back to the war department for reallocation to the justice department for a new federal reformatory, no further land will be released, officials said.

The Veterans' Bureau has, at present, about 3,000 acres of land for hospital use. Part of the tract will be used for farming, to teach veterans scientific agriculture and a portion retained for expansion of facilities.

All the tract is needed because of the scattering of buildings and plans pending indicate Chillicothe will eventually have one of the largest and most up-to-date veterans hospitals in the country.

GIRL FORETOLD DAY OF DEATH INQUEST HELD

Predicted Several Weeks Ago She Would Die Saturday, October 3.

Springfield, O., Oct. 6, (UP).—Vesta Strome, the 14 year old New Carlisle girl (who died Saturday, as she predicted, was a victim of poison, Coroner Theodore Schaefer declared today.

Schaefer's declaration followed an analysis of the girl's stomach walls, made here and later at the state health department in Columbus.

An inquest will be held late this afternoon, Schaefer said.

"I have no theory as to the theory in the case," Schaefer said. "Miss Strome was in the best of health and so far as we can learn, she had no motive for taking poison."

The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cary Strome told Schaefer there was no poison in their home.

The girl died Saturday after predicting several weeks previously, that she would meet death on that date.

Schaefer said he would call in the county prosecutor to begin an inquiry if the inquest failed to establish the motive behind her death.

Miss Strome's funeral will be held just before the inquest.

Scot, 86, Visits Home, Finds Everything Changed

Belfast.—The saddest man on the liner Cedric which arrived here from Liverpool recently en route to America was John Neill, an eighty-six-year-old Scot.

He left his native Glasgow for the United States in 1863 and fought in the Civil war, and this was his first trip to the land of his nativity.

"I did not meet a soul I knew," he said. "Everything was changed and I was like a stranger in a strange land. Now I am going back to Honolulu to spend the remaining days of my life."

Resulted In Perfect Harmony At Directors' Meetings.

It was a strike of steel workers in 1903 that really made unity of opinion and action among the directors of the Steel Corporation and led to the resignation of Charles M. Schwab as president, says Ida Tarbell in her life of Judge Gary in the October McClure's.

Schwab was bitterly opposed to any definite labor policy on the part of the corporation, the minutes of the directors' meetings show. He believed that the subsidiary corporations should bargain separately with labor as they saw fit, while Judge Gary insisted upon a uniform policy.

Before this question was decided, the Amalgamated Workers struck; not against the subsidiary companies but against the corporation. They forced Schwab and the dissenting directors into line with the Gary policies. Shortly after, Schwab resigned.

Diseases Harm Alfalfa Fields

Plants Attacked by Crown or Root Rot Have Died Out in Some Areas.

As a result of last year's attack of crown or root rot, many alfalfa fields are showing areas where the plants have died out entirely. The old crowns remain brown and no new growth appears to be starting although the main root may be sound.

If the tap root is cut across, a yellowish-brown discoloration of the ducts which supply the plant with water can usually be observed, and when examined under the microscope, these ducts are found to be either partially or wholly plugged with a gum-like substance. This material prevents the passage of water from the soil, and the characteristic wilting noticed during the growing season last summer results.

Bacterial Infection Blamed.

Present studies indicate that the disease is due to a bacterial infection which may enter the crowns through the cut stems following the first cutting. Animal parasites in the soil may play a part in infecting the plants, but the alfalfa nematode, thought to be responsible for so much of the killing last season, probably has little to do with this disease.

Three-year-old stands and older seem to be the worst affected. This suggests that the disease is cumulative, and that possibly three or four years are required to bring about a sufficient plugging of the water ducts to interfere seriously with the growth of the plants.

The very wet season of 1923 may have given an abnormal stimulus to the development of the disease which was not felt until 1924, a dry year, when the soil moisture was short, and the plant's ability to utilize what moisture was present was greatly reduced by the plugging of the water ducts.

Alfalfa and sweet clover are both subject to this disease, and neither should be sown for at least five years on land that has had the crown or root rot. In the meantime, rotate the soil with other crops, and if experience has shown that red clover can be grown successfully as a hay crop, substitute it temporarily for alfalfa.

The bacteriological and botanical sections of the Colorado Agricultural Experiment station have experiments under way at the present time which should throw more light upon the cause, nature and control of the disease.—Walter G. Sackett, Bacteriologist, and L. W. Durrell, Botanist, Colorado Experiment Station.

Storing Garden Produce for Use During Winter

There are two classes of crops which are put into storage, those that require warm, moderately dry storage conditions, and those that require cool storage. The various conditions are best met, of course, in a basement or cellar having a good furnace, but they may be pretty well met in a good cellar or cave. Without this you will have to depend upon storing the crops in a room in the house or an attic or in a pit, perhaps.

The pumpkins, squashes, some of the bulbs, onions and the like, should be kept where they will not freeze. The potatoes and root crops such as beets, turnips, carrots, etc., require a cool storage room. Store the root crops in tight packages. A good way to store turnips, carrots, beets and the like is to put them in good tight barrels, a layer at a time, each layer separated by a layer of dry leaves. Such barrels may be buried in a well-drained place, protected from rain or ground water in the garden. Cabbages may be wrapped separately in newspapers and buried in a barrel in the garden also, says a writer in an exchange. We have stored potatoes, apples, and in fact most all the crops which require cool storage in pits or barrels in a well-drained place in the garden very successfully, and aside from the slight difficulty of getting them out during the winter, we have had no reason whatever to complain of this method of storage.

Four Important Factors Governing Alfalfa Crop

There are about four factors which usually govern the growth of alfalfa—drainage, inoculation, limestone and phosphate. Without deep drainage, alfalfa cannot extend its roots deep enough to make heavy growth or to continue its growth through a dry season. Without inoculation, the alfalfa cannot secure enough nitrogen to make a maximum growth. On soils which are rich in organic matter more nitrogen can be taken from the soil, but there is almost no soil rich enough in humus and nitrogen for alfalfa to make a heavy growth without being able to secure some air nitrogen by means of inoculation.

Kill Mites and Lice

Cylinder oil and kerosene mixed and sprayed in the chicken house will keep the mites away, but it will hardly have any effect on the body lice. For these use sodium flouride or good louse powder, forcing it through the long feathers that cover the abdomen. In that place it will get all the lice in a very short time. This treatment should be repeated in about ten days in order to kill the lice that are hatched during that period.

Tells the Whys and the Wherefores of the Movies.

Hollywood, Oct. 3.—It's a great battle. It's causing plenty of discussion and heavy thinking. The bosses in Hollywood are losing plenty of sleep over it. Everyone, even the extras, are interested, because it affects them all. It really has a lot to do with a thing you fans are interested in, "Better Movies." The fight is between the "conferencees" and the "individualists." The "conference" movie makers are losing, because the "individualists" are proving their point with results in better celluloid entertainment.

For many years the battle has waged, but always the result has been the same. All the really fine movies ever made have been the work of individual unit groups. Always the money interests have tried to make movies by factory methods, by committees, by conferences. Always they have failed. "The Birth of a Nation," "The Covered Wagon," "Robin Hood," "The Miracle Man," "The Gold Rush," "The Merry Widow" and all have been made by individuals.

The best movies today are being made by units dominated by personalities like Doug Fairbanks, Jim Cruze, Eric von Stroheim, Harold Lloyd, Clarence Brown, Charlie Chaplin, Gloria Swanson, Mary Pickford, and other directors, authors and stars who have an opportunity to work out their own ideas effectively. Two people might tell a story in an entirely different manner. Each telling might be very entertaining. Trying to bring about a compromise where a lot of people tell a story can never succeed except where one dominant mentality is permitted to absorb the ideas of all and then tell the story as he sees it. That positive fact will always keep the movie business in the hands of the dominant mentalities, but the advocates of factory method movie making die hard, and the battle continues while you fans suffer from the compromise conglomerations.

DAZED BY SUDDEN RISE TO WEALTH

Oil resources near Tulsa, Okla., are still practically untouched in spite of the number of wells that have been drilled in the region. W. E. Espy of Tulsa, chief experimental chemist for a large oil corporation, said to a New York Times reporter. Tulsa has more millionaires than any other city of its size in the country, he added.
"Many of those suddenly made rich haven't the faintest idea of what to do with their wealth," he commented. "Indians or negroes who are living in little hovels will have their land leased by some company and will find themselves millionaires without a notion of what to do about it. The story of the old Indian who bought a horse to use as a pleasure vehicle is no exaggeration. There are lots like him in Oklahoma. The oil industry accounts for the growth of Tulsa. Fifteen years ago the population was barely 15,000. It is now 100,000."

Fearful of fake medium, spiritualist, astrologist and fortune teller because of his exposures in the past, Houdini, internationally famous mystifier and psychic investigator, will continue his campaign against this band of frauds, when he appears at the Hartman theater, Columbus, for one week beginning Monday, October 5, with matinee on Wednesday and Saturday.

A feature of Houdini's performance which has been divided into three parts to give the most complete exhibition and satisfactory results, will be an expose of some of the famous mediums who have tricked many of the country's greatest scientist and investigators. Accompanying the expose will be an explanation of the methods used by the mediums to defraud an unknowing gullible public.

The other two parts of Houdini's program, which is presented by L. Lawrence Weber, will consist of: first an exhibition of illusions, sleight-of-hand tricks and other feat of legerdemain featured by the greatest magicians of the past century and the present one, and, second, Houdini's own world-famous feat escape from straight jackets, handcuffs and such seemingly impossible places as the Great Water Torture cell.

What Might Be Called an Active Man

The wharf at New Orleans was crowded with foot travelers, vehicles and freight piles. A brawny Irishman, driving a truck, locked wheels with another truck operated by a negro.
"As the two trucks jammed the negro opened his mouth in profuse and highly disrespectful protest. But before he had freed six words of his speech unconsciousness shut off further utterance.

For the Irishman, with one flying leap had reached the earth. His left hand closed on the negro's ankle, and as the latter was jerked violently into space the enemy's right fist landed a wing shot squarely on the point of the jaw, and for the time being he knew no more.

Ten minutes later the victim half opened his eyes. A policeman was bending over him, applying first aid.

"What's the matter with you?" demanded the officer.

"A white man hit me," said the ducky, "an' I wants him arrested."

"What's his name?"

"I don't know what his name is, boss—never seed him befo' in my life."

"Well, then, what does he look like?"

"I don't rightly know dat, neither. Hit happen' so quick-lak I didn't get a good look at 'im."

"Then how do you expect me to find him if you can't describe him?" asked the puzzled policeman.

"Boss, dat ain't goin' be no trouble," stated the negro. "You jest go look for the doin'est man they is in New Orleans!"

—WE SAVE YOU MONEY—

The time is passed when the measure of the value of a memorial is quantity. I hope the time has come when that measure is quality. I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting and perfect workmanship, spells success for the future of this industry and the beautification of the cemetery. Will you let me help you select the memorial for your lot. Call at show room. NO AGENTS.

Trace Old Etruscan Wall

Remains of the old city wall built by the Etruscans centuries before the arrival of the Romans, have been discovered at Lucca, Italy, accidentally.

First traces of the wall were found when repairs were being made to the church of Santa Maria Della Rosa. Excavations were continued and traces of the old wall were found under the archbishop's palace. Another large section of the ancient city defense has just been discovered under one of the busiest streets of the city where water pipes were being laid.

Excavations of as much of the wall as possible will be made, so that the ancient defenses which protected the primitive settlement from enemies may be clearly defined.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

JOHNSON ACT WILL BE UP FOR ACTION

Those provisions of the Johnson act, World war legislation drawn up and sponsored by the American Legion, and caught in the legislative jam at the close of the last congress, will be pressed for passage at the next session by the national rehabilitation committee of the Legion, according to Watson B. Miller, chairman.

Among the provisions to be pressed for passage are: To permit the payment of disability compensation retroactively to April of 1917; to provide a permanent rate of compensation for arrested cases of tuberculosis; to provide for the reinstatement of insurance by disabled veterans who are unable to pay the back premiums and interest; to provide family allowances for all beneficiaries who are totally disabled; to remove all dates for the conclusion of vocational training; to remove all time limits for the filing of disability claims; to provide for the setting up of a permanent medical corps in the veterans' bureau service.

Chairman Miller declared that it will be necessary to secure an appropriation from congress at the December session amounting to approximately $13,850,000 so that the veterans' bureau can carry out its program for the construction of new veterans' hospitals. During the last two sessions authorization was granted to the director of the bureau to expend $18,850,000 for this purpose, but due to legislative complications arising at the end of each session only $3,850,000 actual cash was appropriated.

Wilson Memorial Backed
by Georgia Department

Friends of Woodrow Wilson in all parts of the United States will contribute to a fund to establish a college as a national memorial to him in Georgia, the state where he grew to manhood, in the opinion of Col. Edward M. House, intimate friend and personal adviser of President Wilson. The memorial college to Wilson was proposed by the department of Georgia, American Legion.

In a recent interview with a representative of the temporary board of trustees for the proposed college, Colonel House declared that he would do all in his power to assist in the establishment of such a memorial. Pleasant A. Stovall, former minister of Switzerland during the Wilson administration, who is leading the movement to found the Wilson college, said: "The value of Colonel House's support in this undertaking cannot be overemphasized. He is known the world over as one of President Wilson's closest friends."

Severe Penalties for
Embezzlement of Funds

Guardians embezzling funds paid by the government to their wards as World war beneficiaries will be subject to prosecution by the federal government as a result of legislation passed at the recent session of congress. American Legion officials announced at Washington recently. Punishment is fixed at a fine of $2,000 or imprisonment at hard labor for five years or both. The Legion supported the legislation.

Letters were sent recently by the Veterans' bureau to clerks of Probate courts inquiring into guardianships of incompetent veterans and children of veterans, many of them orphans. As a result, guardians in six months returned to the government $100,000, mostly in uncashed government checks. A single letter contained an entire series of uncashed $100 checks going back to 1919.

There are, according to Veterans' bureau records, 9,519 guardians of minors and 15,000 guardians of adults in permanent total cases. The number of minors under guardianship is estimated at 30,000.

Offered to Pay His Way
to Any Foreign Country

The successor to "The Man Without a Country" was found at Omaha, Neb., recently—almost.

F. M. Merriam, commander of Seward post of the American Legion, was commissioned to go to Omaha and look for a youth who, in the columns of an Omaha newspaper, begged to be told one good reason why he should continue to grace the United States of America with his presence, co-operation and endorsement. The discontented youth said: "The time is coming when millions of Americans will enrich other nations with their presence and leave the United States, such as it is, to an anti-liquor organization, as it deserves to be."

The Seward post replied promptly that it would pay the disappointed young man's way to some foreign land if he would promise never to return. The young man in another letter accepted the offer—provided that he might return to this country as often as he wished "on visita."

A Daring Departure in 1921

..today, the nation's standard
for small home heating

"BEAUTIFUL, yes, but will it work?" Many questions, like this one, greeted the Heatrola in 1921. It was so different in appearance and operation from anything known before.

But Heatrola "worked!" From the day of the first installation, its success was assured. For Heatrola, handsome as a fine mahogany cabinet, and as easy to keep clean, does the work of a basement furnace! It keeps every room in the house, upstairs and down, cozy and snug in coldest weather. And requires no more fuel than any stove requires.

Tens of thousands of homes enjoyed Heatrola's furnace comfort last Winter—many thousands more will own Heatrolas before snow flies. Right here in this community, the homes of many of your neighbors are kept warm by this modern heating method. Let us show you these Heatrolas, and tell you how easily you can own one, too. AMUSEMENTS

Cecil B. DeMille's picturization of "The Ten Commandments" is at the Met theater. It has come to us with more superlative advance notices than any other picture which has ever been shown in Circleville. Oddly enough, this picture deserves most of these adjectives. It is great, stupendous, colorful and moving. It has comedy, spectacle and drama. A perfect cast, a fine story and inspired direction. What else could one ask for?
The production takes a little over two hours to show. It is divided into two parts, ancient and modern. In the former the picture opens on the Israelite slaves building the city of Rameses in Egypt. They are being cruelly treated by the Pharaoh, and things look dark until Moses emerges to lead them. He asks for their liberty and when it is not granted ten plagues are visited upon Egypt. After Rameses' son is killed in the last of the plagues, Rameses orders the Hebrews to leave. They go with aching bodies and glad hearts over the desert sands. This part of the picture is done in natural colors and in its sweep is overwhelming.
Then follow scenes showing Moses receiving the commandments on the mount, the children of Israel worshipping the golden calf in a wild orgy, and finally the fade-out in which Moses, wrathful at seeing his people's treachery, flings the tablets which he had received on the rocks, smashing them into a thousand parts.

The modern story was written by Jeanie Macpherson. It shows that the commandments are as great a moral force today as they were five thousand years ago. The lives of two brothers are followed. One lives a life in which he creates and breaks his own laws, while the other keeps the decalogue as his guiding force. In the end evil is punished and good is triumphant.

IN MEMORIAM

Editor Union-Herald:—Sarah Ellen Brown, daughter of Samuel E. and Elizabeth Brown, was born August 30, 1865, and departed this life on September 30, 1925, aged 60 years and one month.

She was united in marriage to Henry Hill February 4, 1885, to which union were born three daughters; Elizabeth, who so faithfully cared for her mother during her long illness; Georgia, living in Ashville and Florence, who preceded her in death August 16, 1896, at the age of eight years.

She was a kind neighbor, a devoted wife and mother, sparing nothing for the comforts and well being of her family. She bore her afflictions of more than five years without complaint, always hoping for the best. About two years ago while visiting with her aunt, Mrs. William Cordray, in Ashville, where some of the Christian folk of that village had gathered for prayer she was gloriously converted and thereafter saw no fear of death and was free to tell her family and friends she was ready at any time to answer the call of the Master.

The approach of death had been closely guarded, yet at a moment unexpected He called and in a few minutes claimed his own, leaving a vacancy in the home that can never be filled.

She leaves a husband, two daughters, one brother and an aged mother and many relatives and friends to mourn her loss.

Card of Thanks.
We wish to extend our thanks and earnest appreciation of the kindly assistance of our neighbors and friends in the sickness and death of our beloved wife and mother, also Rev. D. S. Mills for his kind, consoling words and the donors of many beautiful floral tributes, also we wish to thank the undertaker, A. J. Hott and assistants for their courtesy and kind consideration.

HAPPENINGS IN OUR STATE

Taken Direct From the Wires
by Correspondents of the United States Press Association.

(United Press)
Mt. Vernon, —Clark Klink, 35, of Newark, was killed by a train near here Monday while enroute to work with Harper Sticker. Both men sat down on the tracks to rest. Sticker heard the train and jumped to safety. Klink was mangled.

Cleveland, —Denied a continuance of the case against him, Robert Craig, committed suicide Monday in the corridor of the engineer's building. He was charged with automobile theft. Craig drank poison.

Steubenville, —"Bumblebee," a tiny airplane piloted by Clyde Emerick, 28, Dayton, fell near here Monday when its engine failed. Emerick was slightly injured. Emerick stuck with the plane as it rolled over several times after hitting the earth. He said he lost control of the craft when it hit an air pocket.

East Liverpool, —George Anderson former Kenyon college football star, was held to the grand jury here Monday on a charge of murder in connection with the death of Frank McLain, 25, manager of a tax agency.

Police said Anderson shot and killed McLain while intoxicated. In a statement before he died, McLain said no quarrel had preceded the shooting.

Funicular to San Marino

That rock-citadel of the tiny republic of San Marino, in Italy, which for centuries has defied assault by armies, is soon to capitulate to the funicular. The new line, which will branch off from the main railroad near Rimini, will make the steepest part of the ascent. It is stated, upon the longest series of railroad arches in the world—more than a mile. San Marino, which till now has been a sleepy community of shepherds and truck gardeners, is making a brave bid for the tourist trade. Enjoying as magnificent a natural vista as one can see anywhere in Europe, it is preparing to assist nature with modern hotels and sport grounds. But gambling remains under the ban as always. Any time in the last half-century the poor herdsmen and land tillers of San Marino could have made themselves rich by granting one of the many requests of foreign companies for a gambling concession, similar to the one that relieves the citizens of Monaco of all tax burdens. But San Marino, on moral grounds, has continued to say no.

Boy Scouts Aided Sailors

When the United States fleet recently anchored in Hawaiian waters a number of the vessels docked at Hilo. Here the sailors had an opportunity of seeing the volcano and other interesting sights.

An official committee was formed to take charge of the entertainment of the visitors and the information work. This latter duty was placed in the hands of the local scout council. "About 150 of our scouts turned out for this good turn," states a report from Hilo. "Some of these boys came over 180 miles to take part in the work, and paid their own expenses for travel and food. The scouts took charge of information booths, kept flags used in street decoration, in correct position, and assisted the police at the regatta and concert, during the parade, and in traffic work."

Pertinent Question

A widely known advertising man, whose business requires that he make frequent trips to other cities, has a son about five years old. On these trips it has been the father's custom to buy a small present for his son, but, on a recent trip it slipped his mind entirely. On his return, while he kissed his wife, the son stood near by expectantly. However, the father did not produce his usual gift.
"Papa," finally queried the little fellow, "you work for money, don't you?"
"Yes," replied the father. "Why?"
"Well," rejoined the son, "what have you been doing these last two weeks?"—Indianapolis News.

Flying Into Matrimony

A young Swedish couple were recently married while flying through the air on board an airplane. When the machine, carrying a full complement of passengers, had risen to a height of 1,500 feet an altar was erected in the cabin, before which a Swedish clergyman performed the marriage ceremony, with a lawyer and his wife as witnesses. A wedding breakfast was then served, and the health of the couple drunk in champagne by all the passengers. The clergyman and the lawyer left the machine at Hamburg, but the couple continued their honeymoon trip to Amsterdam.

A System of Farming That Brings Health and Prosperity

Every farm, regardless of the method of farming practiced or of the crops raised, should have at least a few good milk cows to provide

- (1) Enough milk, cream and butter for home use;
- (2) Enough skim-milk to raise some calves, pigs and chickens;
- (3) Enough cream or butter to sell to pay, in part or entirely, current living expenses.

This plan has been a "life-saver" for thousands of farmers, especially during the hard times of the past two years. It insures a living, at least, and often other income besides.

Such a plan pays best with a De Laval Cream Separator. It soon pays for itself—and skims cleaner, lasts longer and is easier to operate and clean than any other.

OHIOAN MAY BECOME PRESID-
ING OFFICER

Rt. Rev. Theodore I. Reese May Become Head of Episcopal
House of Bishops.

Columbus, Oct. 4.—Rt. Rev. Theodore Irving Reese, Columbus, bishop co-adjutor of the diocese of southern Ohio, may be chosen presiding bishop when the house of bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church meet in New Orleans, La., beginning Wednesday, in the triennial general convention of the church, according to dispatches from New Orleans.

Two rectors of Columbus Episcopal churches and two laymen are expected to leave today for New Orleans to attend the forty-eighth triennial general convention of the church. According to the dispatches, the convention is expected to continue for three weeks.

Those leaving from Columbus are Rev. E. F. Chauncey of Trinity Episcopal Church and Rev. Sidney E. Sweet of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, who with two other rectors will represent the clergy of the diocese of southern Ohio, and Judge Daniel H. Sowers and Wilford O. Frohock, who, with two other laymen, will represent the laymen of the diocese.

This will be the first time within 140 years that the Episcopal convention will elect its own presiding bishop.

Rt. Rev. Boyd Vincent, Cincinnati, bishop of the diocese, will ask to be retired because of his age.

The new presiding bishop to be elected at the convention will be ex-officio president of the national council of the Episcopal church. That is, he will have the duties now performed by Bishop Talbot and also those of the Rt. Rev. Thomas F. Gailor, the present head of the council.

If Bishop Reese is elected presiding bishop, he will be compelled to reside in New York unless the convention should vote to move the Episcopal headquarters from the metropolis to Washington, but this is not thought to be likely.

The election, which will be by the house of bishops, will be subject to concurrence by the house of deputies, and the presiding bishop's term will be for six years. It is the opinion of some that the salary will be the same as Bishop Gailor now is receiving, $15,000.

There will be 146 in the house of bishops and 648 in the house of deputies. They will legislate under separate roofs and one house must ratify what the other votes before the action becomes a church law.

The new presiding bishop will be the fifteenth to hold such an office.

There were 31 boys in the dormitory at the time of the fire and the heroic efforts of the sisters of St. Joseph and others at the institution were responsible for saving many of the boys' lives.

Get Revenge By Defeating the Washington Merchants Sunday By a 13 to 0 Score.

At Mason's field yesterday the Eagle football team got ample revenge from the Washington Merchants for last year's defeat, beating the visitors by a score of 13 to 0, and holding them to only one first down in the entire game. The field was quite muddy and the slippery ball caused numerous fumbles, Circleville losing the ball twice while making advances toward a touchdown.

With Weiler, Palm and Cupp out of the line-up Circleville had enough strength to completely outclass the visitors in all departments of the game. Washington was forced to kick eight times with an average of about thirty yards.

The game for next Sunday has not been closed yet and it is possible the team will take a road game. The attendance yesterday was very good considering the weather and big crowds are expected before the close of the season as some of the big teams will be brought here.

OCTOBER
Cease to call him sad and sober,
Merriest of months, October!
Patron of the bursting bins,
Reveller in wayside inns,
I can nowhere find a trace
Of the pensive in his face;
There is mingled wit and folly,
But the madcap lacks the grace
Of a thoughtful melancholy,
Spendthrift of the season's gold,
How he flings and scatters out
Treasure filched from summer time!

With his amber afternoons
And his pendant poets' moons—
With his twilights dashed with rose
From the red-lipped afterglows
With his every piping breeze
Shaking from familiar trees
Apples of Hesperides—
With the chuckle, chirp, and trill
Of his jolly brooks that spill
Mirth in tangled madrigals
Down pebble-dappled waterfalls
Cease to call him sad or sober,
He's a jolly dog, October!

Sauce for the Goose

An East Sider of foreign birth and short term of residence in this country prospered to the extent where he graduated from the ranks of the Forsythe street sidewalk merchants and became a regular business man, with a store and showcases and everything. Also, for the first time in his life he was able to start a bank account.

One day he was engaged on the telephone by the assistant cashier of the bank where he kept his checking fund. "Mr. Abrams" stated the cashier, "I called you up to tell you that on the first day of this month your account appears overdrawn $108."

"So?" droned Mr. Abrams. "Say, young man, would you do it for me a favor?"

"Sure."

"Then, please, you should look at your books and tell me how stood the account on the foist day of last month."

In a minute or two the bank functionary was back at the phone.

"Oh, Mr. Abrams," he said, "on the first day of last month you had a balance to your credit of $322.25."

"So!" shouted Mr. Abrams. "Und did I call you up?"

MONGOLS HALT U. S. EXPLORERS

Order American Asiatic Expedition Out of Country.

Urga, Mongolia. — The Mongolian government has ordered the third Asiatic expedition of the American Museum of Natural History, under the leadership of Roy Chapman Andrews, to cease its exploration and scientific work and to leave Mongolian territory, alleging that Mr. Andrews has violated the terms of his agreement with Mongolian scientific organizations.

The Mongolian government alleges that, besides carrying out his scientific work in the domain of paleontology, geology and zoology, Mr. Andrews' expedition also has engaged in topographical observation work and has employed a number of suspicious — in a military sense — persons.

Mr. Andrews also is accused of carrying on political propaganda and stirring up the Mongolians against "the Red Bolsheviks."

Long Having Trouble.

New York. — Expulsion of the Andrews expedition from Mongolia was not unexpected, officials of the American Museum of Natural History said, since Roy Chapman Andrews, the leader, recently reported "unusually difficult conditions" in his relations with the territorial authorities.

Museum officials are hopeful, despite the expulsion order, that the situation might be clarified before the expedition actually quits the territory.

Finds Sand-Dune Race.

Peking. — Stone Implements and weapons of a race of men who lived thousands of years ago among sand dunes on the shore of a lake since swallowed up by the Gobi desert, have been found far in the interior of Mongolia by the expedition under Mr. Andrews.

These primitive men bored the shells and made ornaments of the eggs left by the dinosaur, the giant reptile that roamed the Asiatic uplands some ten million years ago, Mr. Andrews said. They used for the same purpose the shells of a gigantic ostrich, long since extinct.

Traces of Earliest Man.

Mr. Andrews believes his expedition has uncovered traces of the earliest type of men yet discovered. He has named them the "dune dwellers of Shabarack Ussu," using the name of the site of the find. "In these dunes dwellers," he said, "we believe we have found the earliest type of man in his development from the ape."

Since entering Mongolia last spring the expedition has traversed more than 4,000 miles, penetrating as far as the Altai mountains in far western Mongolia.

Learns Stranger Who Aided Him Is Brother

Lancaster, Pa. — "Hello, need any help?"

"Could stand a little—I'm kind of stuck with this thing."

An automobile bearing a California license had drawn up alongside a small truck that had developed trouble along the old Philadelphia turnpike in the vicinity of Witmer. The driver of the car had seen the plight of the truck driver and was willing to give assistance. The two men joined forces and soon had the truck in running order.

Then the owner of the truck noticed that his newly made acquaintance was a Californian.

"I've got a brother somewhere in California that I haven't seen for 17 years. Maybe you know him? He's Milton Harnish; I'm Aaron Harnish and live over here at Witmer."

"Maybe I do," replied the stranger, as he drove away.

Later in the day Aaron Harnish returned home and was surprised to find his acquaintance of the road sitting on the porch.

"Hello, Aaron," said the stranger. "I'm your brother, Milt. First time home in 17 years. I live in Los Angeles."

Prison Reform Laws Help to Empty Britain's Jails

London. — Probationary methods for adults and the "Borstal" treatment for young people have been responsible for a marked decrease in the population of British prisons, so much so that more than twenty jails in England and Wales, or one-third of the total, have been closed since 1914.

There are now only about forty prisons in use throughout the country and these are not fully occupied.

A home office official says fewer and fewer people are being committed to prison because the tendency now is to reform a man or woman if it be at all possible. The increased use of probationary methods has worked well, and in the opinion of the official the time is not far distant when prisons will be used only for habitual criminals with whom all attempts at reform have failed.

LONG FLIGHTS OVER THE WEST AND NORTHWEST

Airmen Traveled 20,000 Miles and Made 600 Photographs of Parks.

Dayton, O., Oct. 5 (UP).—Lieutenant John A. MacReady and Captain A. W. Stevens, premier camera man of the U. S. air service returned Monday after a flight of 20,000 miles in an airplane, which took them over the west and northwest.

During the flight they made 3,600 photographs of the national park system. They also made photos of every landing field on the air mail routes and the emergency fields and all other landing fields.

From these photographs there will be constructed an aerial map of the system west of Chicago. At no time during the 200-hours they were in the air did they encounter any trouble.

On one occasion Stevens attempted to make a photograph of a mirage. What the plates will show of this strange phenomenon is awaited with more than ordinary interest because of its rarity. So far as is known this is the first time a mirage has ever been photographed.

LAND SALES.

In the partition suit of W. D. Heiskell against John Rector and others the sheriff sold the Thomas W. Rector farm in Deercreek township consisting of 180 acres to Denny Phillips at $115 an acre. C. G. Chalfin was the auctioneer. Charles H. May represented the plaintiff and Meeker Terwilliger the defendant.

In the case of the Sheriff against Mary Short, a foreclosure of mortgage on a farm consisting of 53.20 acres a part of the Andrew Slager farm in Wayne township, was sold to William Edward Slagle for $800. James Tootle, of Wayne township, owns a life interest in the land. The sale was auctioned by C. G. Chalfin. George G. Adkins represented the heirs.

Wobblers in Jail-Break Foiled by Cold Water

Fargo, N. D.—L. W. W.'s lodged in the Cass county jail here attempted to break for freedom, smashing doors and wrecking cells. Freedom was within reach.

Unable to cope with the prisoners single handed, Sheriff John Ross issued an "SOS" call to the local fire department.

Eight-inch streams of water were played on the rioting prisoners until they retreated to their cells.

CAMP SHERMAN HOSPITAL WILL BE IMPROVED

Veterans' Bureau Has About 3,000 Acres and Part to be Used for Farming.

Washington, Oct. 5 (UP)—Extensive improvements in the Veterans' Bureau hospital at Chillicothe will be started as soon as an appropriation is available for the work.

Government architects are just now studying plans for improving the laundry and ice plant at the hospital and for building porches for convalescent soldiers. All temporary buildings will be made fireproof and improved as fast as money for the work can be made available.

While 11,000 acres of Camp Sherman that was held by the Veterans' Bureau is turned back to the war department for reallocation to the justice department for a new federal reformatory, no further land will be released, officials said.

The Veterans' Bureau has, at present, about 3,000 acres of land for hospital use. Part of the tract will be used for farming, to teach veterans scientific agriculture and a portion retained for expansion of facilities.

All the tract is needed because of the scattering of buildings and plans pending indicate Chillicothe will eventually have one of the largest and most up-to-date veterans hospitals in the country.

GIRL FORETOLD DAY OF DEATH INQUEST HELD

Predicted Several Weeks Ago She Would Die Saturday, October 3.

Springfield, O., Oct. 6, (UP).—Vesta Strome, the 14 year old New Carlisle girl (who died Saturday, as she predicted, was a victim of poison, Coroner Theodore Schaefer declared today.

Schaefer's declaration followed an analysis of the girl's stomach walls, made here and later at the state health department in Columbus.

An inquest will be held late this afternoon, Schaefer said.

"I have no theory as to the theory in the case," Schaefer said. "Miss Strome was in the best of health and so far as we can learn, she had no motive for taking poison."

The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cary Strome told Schaefer there was no poison in her home.

The girl died Saturday after predicting several weeks previously, that she would meet death on that date.

Schaefer said he would call in the county prosecutor to begin an inquiry if the inquest failed to establish the motive behind her death.

Miss Strome's funeral will be held just before the inquest.

Scot, 86, Visits Home, Finds Everything Changed

Belfast.—The saddest man on the liner Cedric which arrived here from Liverpool recently en route to America was John Neill, an eighty-six-year-old Scot.

He left his native Glasgow for the United States in 1863 and fought in the Civil war, and this was his first trip to the land of his nativity.

"I did not meet a soul I knew," he said. "Everything was changed and I was like a stranger in a strange land. Now I am going back to Honolulu to spend the remaining days of my life."

STRIKE

Resulted In Perfect Harmony At Directors' Meetings.

It was a strike of steel workers in 1903 that really made unity of opinion and action among the directors of the Steel Corporation and led to the resignation of Charles M. Schwab as president, says Ida Tarbell in her life of Judge Gary in the October McClure's.

Schwab was bitterly opposed to any definite labor policy on the part of the corporation, the minutes of the directors' meetings show. He believed that the subsidiary corporations should bargain separately with labor as they saw fit, while Judge Gary insisted upon a uniform policy.

Before this question was decided, the Amalgamated Workers struck; not against the subsidiary companies but against the corporation. They forced Schwab and the dissenting directors into line with the Gary policies. Shortly after, Schwab resigned.

Diseases Harm Alfalfa Fields

Plants Attacked by Crown or Root Rot Have Died Out in Some Areas.

As a result of last year's attack of crown or root rot, many alfalfa fields are showing areas where the plants have died out entirely. The old crowns remain brown and no new growth appears to be starting although the main root may be sound.

If the tap root is cut across, a yellowish-brown discoloration of the ducts which supply the plant with water can usually be observed, and when examined under the microscope, these ducts are found to be either partially or wholly plugged with a gum-like substance. This material prevents the passage of water from the soil, and the characteristic wilting noticed during the growing season last summer results.

Bacterial Infection Blamed.

Present studies indicate that the disease is due to a bacterial infection which may enter the crowns through the cut stems following the first cutting. Animal parasites in the soil may play a part in infecting the plants, but the alfalfa nematode, thought to be responsible for so much of the killing last season, probably has little to do with this disease.

Three-year-old stands and older seem to be the worst affected. This suggests that the disease is cumulative, and that possibly three or four years are required to bring about a sufficient plugging of the water ducts to interfere seriously with the growth of the plants.

The very wet season of 1923 may have given an abnormal stimulus to the development of the disease which was not felt until 1924, a dry year, when the soil moisture was short, and the plant's ability to utilize what moisture was present was greatly reduced by the plugging of the water ducts.

Alfalfa and sweet clover are both subject to this disease, and neither should be sown for at least five years on land that has had the crown or root rot. In the meantime, rotate the soil with other crops, and if experience has shown that red clover can be grown successfully as a hay crop, substitute it temporarily for alfalfa.

The bacteriological and botanical sections of the Colorado Agricultural Experiment station have experiments under way at the present time which should throw more light upon the cause, nature and control of the disease.—Walter G. Sackett, Bacteriologist, and L. W. Durrell, Botanist, Colorado Experiment Station.

Storing Garden Produce for Use During Winter

There are two classes of crops which are put into storage, those that require warm, moderately dry storage conditions, and those that require cool storage. The various conditions are best met, of course, in a basement or cellar having a good furnace, but they may be pretty well met in a good cellar or cave. Without this you will have to depend upon storing the crops in a room in the house or an attic or in a pit, perhaps.

The pumpkins, squashes, some of the bulbs, onions and the like, should be kept where they will not freeze. The potatoes and root crops such as beets, turnips, carrots, etc., require a cool storage room. Store the root crops in tight packages. A good way to store turnips, carrots, beets and the like is to put them in good tight barrels, a layer at a time, each layer separated by a layer of dry leaves. Such barrels may be buried in a well-drained place, protected from rain or ground water in the garden. Cabbages may be wrapped separately in newspapers and buried in a barrel in the garden also, says a writer in an exchange. We have stored potatoes, apples, and in fact most all the crops which require cool storage in pits or barrels in a well-drained place in the garden very successfully, and aside from the slight difficulty of getting them out during the winter, we have had no reason whatever to complain of this method of storage.

Four Important Factors Governing Alfalfa Crop

There are about four factors which usually govern the growth of alfalfa—drainage, inoculation, limestone and phosphate. Without deep drainage, alfalfa cannot extend its roots deep enough to make heavy growth or to continue its growth through a dry season. Without inoculation, the alfalfa cannot secure enough nitrogen to make a maximum growth. On soils which are rich in organic matter more nitrogen can be taken from the soil, but there is almost no soil rich enough in humus and nitrogen for alfalfa to make a heavy growth without being able to secure some air nitrogen by means of inoculation.

Kill Mites and Lice

Cylinder oil and kerosene mixed and sprayed in the chicken house will keep the mites away, but it will hardly have any effect on the body lice. For these use sodium flouride or good louse powder, forcing it through the long feathers that cover the abdomen. In that place it will get all the lice in a very short time. This treatment should be repeated in about ten days in order to kill the lice that are hatched during that period.

Tells the Whys and the Wherefores of the Movies.

Hollywood, Oct. 3.—It's a great battle. It's causing plenty of discussion and heavy thinking. The bosses in Hollywood are losing plenty of sleep over it. Everyone, even the extras, are interested, because it affects them all. It really has a lot to do with a thing you fans are interested in, "Better Movies." The fight is between the "conferenceites" and the "individualists." The "conference" movie makers are losing, because the "individualists" are proving their point with results in better celluloid entertainment.

For many years the battle has waged, but always the result has been the same. All the really fine movies ever made have been the work of individual unit groups. Always the money interests have tried to make movies by factory methods, by committees, by conferences. Always they have failed. "The Birth of a Nation," "The Covered Wagon," "Robin Hood," "The Miracle Man," "The Gold Rush," "The Merry Widow" and all have been made by individuals.

The best movies today are being made by units dominated by personalities like Doug Fairbanks, Jim Cruze, Eric von Stroheim, Harold Lloyd, Clarence Brown, Charlie Chaplin, Gloria Swanson, Mary Pickford, and other directors, authors and stars who have an opportunity to work out their own ideas effectively. Two people might tell a story in an entirely different manner. Each telling might be very entertaining. Trying to bring about a compromise where a lot of people tell a story can never succeed except where one dominant mentality is permitted to absorb the ideas of all and then tell the story as he sees it. That positive fact will always keep the movie business in the hands of the dominant mentalities, but the advocates of factory method movie making die hard, and the battle continues while you fans suffer from the compromise conglomerations.

What Might Be Called an Active Man
The wharf at New Orleans was crowded with foot travelers, vehicles and freight piles. A brawny Irishman, driving a truck, locked wheels with another truck operated by a negro. As the two trucks jammed the negro opened his mouth in profuse and highly disrespectful protest. But before he had freed six words of his speech unconsciousness shut off further utterance.
For the Irishman, with one flying leap had reached the earth. His left hand closed on the negro's ankle, and as the latter was jerked violently into space the enemy's right fist landed a wing shot squarely on the point of the jaw, and for the time being he knew no more.
Ten minutes later the victim half opened his eyes. A policeman was bending over him, applying first aid.
"What's the matter with you?" demanded the officer.
"A white man hit me," said the darky, "an' I wants him arrested."
"What's his name?"
"I don't know what his name is, boss—never seed him befo' in my life."
"Well, then, what does he look like?"
"I don't rightly know dat, neither. Hit happen' so quick-lak I didn't get a good look at 'im."
"Then how do you expect me to find him if you can't describe him?" asked the puzzled policeman.
"Boss, dat ain't goin' be no trouble," stated the negro. "You jest go look for the doin'est man they is in New Orleans!"

DAZED BY SUDDEN RISE TO WEALTH

Oil resources near Tulsa, Okla., are still practically untouched in spite of the number of wells that have been drilled in the region. W. E. Esby of Tulsa, chief experimental chemist for a large oil corporation, said to a New York Times reporter. Tulsa has more millionaires than any other city of its size in the country, he added.
"Many of those suddenly made rich haven't the faintest idea of what to do with their wealth," he commented. "Indians or negroes who are living in little hovels will have their land leased by some company and will find themselves millionaires without a notion of what to do about it. The story of the old Indian who bought a bear to use as a pleasure vehicle is no exaggeration. There are lots like him in Oklahoma. The oil industry accounts for the growth of Tulsa. Fifteen years ago the population was barely 15,000. It is now 100,000."

HARTMAN THEATER.

Feared by fake medium, spiritualist, astrologist and fortune teller because of his exposures in the past, Houdini, internationally famous mystifier and psychic investigator, will continue his campaign against this band of frauds, when he appears at the Hartman theater, Columbus, for one week beginning Monday, October 5, with matinee on Wednesday and Saturday.
A feature of Houdini's performance which has been divided into three parts to give the most complete exhibition and satisfactory results, will be an expose of some of the famous mediums who have tricked many of the country's greatest scientist and investigators. Accompanying the expose will be an explanation of the methods used by the mediums to defraud an unknowing gullible public.
The other two parts of Houdini's program, which is presented by L. Lawrence Weber, will consist of; first an exhibition of illusions, sleight-of-hand tricks and other feat of legerdemain featured by the greatest magicians of the past century and the present one, and, second, Houdini's own world-famous feat—escape from straight jackets, handcuffs and such seemingly impossible places as the Great Water Torture cell.

With scenery and state settings equal to those of any great spectacle of the theater, Houdini's current production has been acclaimed as the most sensational and elaborate of its kind ever seen. Send mail orders now to box office.

I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting and perfect workmanship, spells success for the future of this industry and the beautification of the cemetery. Trace Old Etruscan Wall

Remains of the old city wall built by the Etruscans centuries before the arrival of the Romans, have been discovered at Lucca, Italy, accidentally.

First traces of the wall were found when repairs were being made to the church of Santa Maria Della Rosa. Excavations were continued and traces of the old wall were found under the archbishop's palace. Another large section of the ancient city defense has just been discovered under one of the busiest streets of the city where water pipes were being laid.

Excavations of as much of the wall as possible will be made, so that the ancient defenses which protected the primitive settlement from enemies may be clearly defined.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

JOHNSON ACT WILL BE UP FOR ACTION

Those provisions of the Johnson act, World war legislation drawn up and sponsored by the American Legion, and caught in the legislative jam at the close of the last congress, will be pressed for passage at the next session by the national rehabilitation committee of the Legion, according to Watson B. Miller, chairman.

Among the provisions to be pressed for passage are: To permit the payment of disability compensation retroactively to April of 1917; to provide a permanent rate of compensation for arrested cases of tuberculosis; to provide for the reinstatement of insurance by disabled veterans who are unable to pay the back premiums and interest; to provide family allowances for all beneficiaries who are totally disabled; to remove all dates for the conclusion of vocational training; to remove all time limits for the filing of disability claims; to provide for the setting up of a permanent medical corps in the veterans' bureau service.

Chairman Miller declared that it will be necessary to secure an appropriation from congress at the December session amounting to approximately $13,850,000 so that the veterans' bureau can carry out its program for the construction of new veterans' hospitals. During the last two sessions authorization was granted to the director of the bureau to expend $16,850,000 for this purpose, but due to legislative complications arising at the end of each session only $3,850,000 actual cash was appropriated.

Wilson Memorial Backed
by Georgia Department

Friends of Woodrow Wilson in all parts of the United States will contribute to a fund to establish a college as a national memorial to him in Georgia, the state where he grew to manhood. In the opinion of Col. Edward M. House, intimate friend and personal adviser of President Wilson. The memorial college to Wilson was proposed by the department of Georgia, American Legion.

In a recent interview with a representative of the temporary board of trustees for the proposed college, Colonel House declared that he would do all in his power to assist in the establishment of such a memorial. Pleasant A. Stovall, former minister of Switzerland during the Wilson administration, who is leading the movement to found the Wilson college, said: "The value of Colonel House's support in this undertaking cannot be overemphasized. He is known the world over as one of President Wilson's closest friends."

Severe Penalties for
Embezzlement of Funds

Guardians embezzling funds paid by the government to their wards as World war beneficiaries will be subject to prosecution by the federal government as a result of legislation passed at the recent session of congress, American Legion officials announced at Washington recently. Punishment is fixed at a fine of $2,000 or imprisonment at hard labor for five years or both. The Legion supported the legislation.

Letters were sent recently by the Veterans' bureau to clerks of Probate courts inquiring into guardianships of incompetent veterans and children of veterans, many of them orphans. As a result, guardians in six months returned to the government $100,000, mostly in uncashed government checks. A single letter contained an entire series of uncashed $100 checks going back to 1919.

There are, according to Veterans' bureau records, 9,519 guardians of minors and 15,000 guardians of adults in permanent total cases. The number of minors under guardianship is estimated at 30,000.

Offered to Pay His Way
to Any Foreign Country

The successor to "The Man Without a Country" was found at Omaha, Neb., recently—almost.

F. M. Merriam, commander of Seward post of the American Legion, was commissioned to go to Omaha and look for a youth who, in the columns of an Omaha newspaper, begged to be told one good reason why he should continue to grace the United States of America with his presence, co-operation and endorsement. The discontented youth said: "The time is coming when millions of Americans will enrich other nations with their presence and leave the United States, such as it is, to an anti-liquor organization, as it deserves to be."

The Seward post replied promptly that it would pay the disappointed young man's way to some foreign land if he would promise never to return. The young man in another letter accepted the offer—provided that he might return to this country as often as he wished "on visits."

Animals Fight in Zoo

Washington.—A baby monkey, center of interest at the national zoo for some weeks, is dying and two flamingoes are dead as the result of two battles, witnessed by visitors. The monkey suffered a broken back when its father leaped upon it, as the youngster was reaching for a peanut. The flamingoes, bright-hued birds from North Africa, were attacked by a black swan.

A Daring Departure in 1921

.. today, the nation's standard
for small home heating

"BEAUTIFUL, yes, but will it work?" Many questions, like this one, greeted the Heatrola in 1921. It was so different in appearance and operation from anything known before.

But Heatrola "worked!" From the day of the first installation, its success was assured. For Heatrola, handsome as a fine mahogany cabinet, and as easy to keep clean, does the work of a basement furnace! It keeps every room in the house, upstairs and down, cozy and snug in coldest weather. And requires no more fuel than any stove requires.

Tens of thousands of homes enjoyed Heatrola's furnace comfort last Winter—many thousands more will own Heatrolas before snow flies. Right here in this community, the homes of many of your neighbors are kept warm by this modern heating method. Let us show you these Heatrolas, and tell you how easily you can own one, too. Phone us—now, before Fall advances further.

AMUSEMENTS

Cecil B. DeMille's picturization of "The Ten Commandments" is at the Met theater. It has come to us with more superlative advance notices than any other picture which has ever been shown in Circleville. Oddly enough, this picture deserves most of these adjectives. It is great, stupendous, colorful and moving. It has comedy, spectacle and drama. A perfect cast, a fine story and inspired direction. What else could one ask for? The production takes a little over two hours to show. It is divided into two parts, ancient and modern. In the former the picture opens on the Israelite slaves building the city of Rameses in Egypt. They are being cruelly treated by the Pharaoh, and things look dark until Moses emerges to lead them. He asks for their liberty and when it is not granted ten plagues are visited upon Egypt. After Rameses' son is killed in the last of the plagues, Rameses orders the Hebrews to leave. They go with aching bodies and glad hearts over the desert sands. This part of the picture is done in natural colors and in its sweep is overwhelming.

Then follow scenes showing Moses receiving the commandments on the mount, the children of Israel worshipping the golden calf in a wild orgy, and finally the fade-out in which Moses, wrathful at seeing his people's treachery, flings the tablets which he had received on the rocks, smashing them into a thousand parts.

The modern story was written by Jeanie Macpherson. It shows that the commandments are as great a moral force today as they were five thousand years ago. The lives of two brothers are followed. One lives a life in which he creates and breaks his own laws, while the other keeps the decalogue as his guiding force. In the end evil is punished and good is triumphant.

IN MEMORIAM

Editor Union-Herald:—Sarah Ellen Brown, daughter of Samuel E. and Elizabeth Brown, was born August 30, 1865, and departed this life on September 30, 1925, aged 60 years and one month.

She was united in marriage to Henry Hill February 4, 1885, to which union were born three daughters; Elizabeth, who so faithfully cared for her mother during her long illness; Georgia, living in Ashville and Florence, who preceded her in death August 16, 1896, at the age of eight years.

She was a kind neighbor, a devoted wife and mother, sparing nothing for the comforts and well being of her family. She bore her afflictions of more than five years without complaint, always hoping for the best. About two years ago while visiting with her aunt, Mrs. William Cordray, in Ashville, where some of the Christian folk of that village had gathered for prayer she was gloriously converted and thereafter saw no fear of death and was free to tell her family and friends she was ready at any time to answer the call of the Master.

The approach of death had been closely guarded, yet at a moment unexpected he called and in a few minutes claimed his own, leaving a vacancy in the home that can never be filled.

She leaves a husband, two daughters, one brother and an aged mother and many relatives and friends to mourn her loss.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to extend our thanks and earnest appreciation of the kindly assistance of our neighbors and friends in the sickness and death of our beloved wife and mother, also Rev. D. S. Mills for his kind, consoling words and the donors of many beautiful floral tributes, also we wish to thank the undertaker, A. J. Hott and assistant for their courtesy and kind consideration.

Funicular to San Marino

That rock-citadel of the tiny republic of San Marino, in Italy, which for centuries has defied assault by armies, is soon to capitulate to the funicular. The new line, which will branch off from the main railroad near Rimini, will make the steepest part of the ascent, it is stated, upon the longest series of railroad arches in the world—more than a mile. San Marino, which till now has been a sleepy community of shepherds and truck gardeners, is making a brave bid for the tourist trade. Enjoying as magnificent a natural vista as one can see anywhere in Europe, it is preparing to assist nature with modern hotels and sport grounds. But gambling remains under the ban as always. Any time in the last half-century the poor herdsmen and land tillers of San Marino could have made themselves rich by granting one of the many requests of foreign companies for a gambling concession, similar to the one that relieves the citizens of Monaco of all tax burdens. But San Marino, on moral grounds, has continued to say no.

Boy Scouts Aided Sailors

When the United States fleet recently anchored in Hawaiian waters a number of the vessels docked at Hilo. Here the sailors had an opportunity of seeing the volcano and other interesting sights.

An official committee was formed to take charge of the entertainment of the visitors and the information work. This latter duty was placed in the hands of the local scout council. "About 150 of our scouts turned out for this 'good turn,'" states a report from Hilo. "Some of these boys came over 180 miles to take part in the work, and paid their own expenses for travel and food. The scouts took charge of information booths, kept flags used in street decoration, in correct position, and assisted the police at the regatta and concert, during the parade, and in traffic work."

Pertinent Question

A widely known advertising man, whose business requires that he make frequent trips to other cities, has a son about five years old. On these trips it has been the father's custom to buy a small present for his son, but, on a recent trip it slipped his mind entirely. On his return, while he kissed his wife, the son stood near by expectantly. However, the father did not produce his usual gift. "Papa," finally queried the little fellow, "you work for money, don't you?" "Yes," replied the father. "Why?" "Well," rejoined the son, "what have you been doing these last two weeks?"—Indianapolis News.

Flying Into Matrimony

A young Swedish couple were recently married while flying through the air on board an airplane. When the machine, carrying a full complement of passengers, had risen to a height of 1,500 feet an altar was erected in the cabin, before which a Swedish clergyman performed the marriage ceremony, with a lawyer and his wife as witnesses. A wedding breakfast was then served, and the health of the couple drunk in champagne by all the passengers. The clergyman and the lawyer left the machine at Hamburg, but the couple continued their honeymoon trip to Amsterdam.

A System of Farming That Brings Health and Prosperity

Every farm, regardless of the method of farming practiced or of the crops raised, should have at least a few good milk cows to provide

- (1) Enough milk, cream and butter for home use;
- (2) Enough skim-milk to raise some calves, pigs and chickens;
- (3) Enough cream or butter to sell to pay, in part or entirely, current living expenses.

This plan has been a "life-saver" for thousands of farmers, especially during the hard times of the past two years. It insures a living, at least, and often other income besides.

Such a plan pays best with a De Laval Cream Separator. It soon pays for itself—and skims cleaner, lasts longer and is easier to operate and clean than any other.

SOCIAL AFFAIRS

Thirteen tables were placed in the Country club lounge Friday afternoon when Mrs. Claud Wiedler and Mrs. A. E. Herrstein were the charming hostesses to a pretty bridge luncheon. Lovely autumn flowers were artistically placed about the room and centered the tables at which the delicious three course luncheon was served. The fascinating game of bridge occupied the afternoon and at the conclusion of play gifts for high and low scores were given Mrs. H. E. Ireland, Mrs. B. T. Hedges, Mrs. Porter Campbell and Mrs. D. A. Perrin. Among the out of town guests were Mrs. Joseph Ferneau, Mrs. Porter Campbell, Mrs. W. W. Davis and Mrs. Ernest Rockhold of Bainbridge; Mrs. B. T. Hedges and Mrs. R. R. Bales, of Circleville.— Chillicothe News-Advertiser.

OHIOAN MAY BECOME PRESIDING OFFICER

Rt. Rev. Theodore I. Reese May Become Head of Episcopal House of Bishops.

Columbus, Oct. 4.—Rt. Rev. Theodore Irving Reese, Columbus, bishop co-adjutor of the diocese of southern Ohio, may be chosen presiding bishop when the house of bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church meet in New Orleans, La., beginning Wednesday, in the triennial general convention of the church, according to dispatches from New Orleans. Rt. Rev. Charles Henry Brent, Buffalo, bishop of western New York, also is mentioned prominently for the position, but it is believed that Bishop Reese's chance for election are excellent.

Two rectors of Columbus Episcopal churches and two laymen are expected to leave today for New Orleans to attend the forty-eighth triennial general convention of the church. According to the dispatches, the convention is expected to continue for three weeks.

Those leaving from Columbus are Rev. E. F. Chauncey of Trinity Episcopal Church and Rev. Sidney E. Sweet of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, who with two other rectors will represent the clergy of the diocese of southern Ohio, and Judge Daniel H. Sowers and Wilford O. Frohock, who, with two other laymen, will represent the laymen of the diocese. This will be the first time within 140 years that the Episcopal convention will elect its own presiding bishop.

Rt. Rev. Boyd Vincent, Cincinnati, bishop of the diocese, will ask to be retired because of his age.

The new presiding bishop to be elected at the convention will be ex-officio president of the national council of the Episcopal church. That is, he will have the duties now performed by Bishop Talbot and also those of the Rt. Rev. Thomas F. Gailor, the present head of the council.

If Bishop Reese is elected presiding bishop, he will be compelled to reside in New York unless the convention should vote to move the Episcopal headquarters from the metropolis to Washington, but this is not thought to be likely.

The election, which will be by the house of bishops, will be subject to concurrence by the house of deputies, and the presiding bishop's term will be for six years. It is the opinion of some that the salary will be the same as Bishop Gailor now is receiving, $15,000.

There will be 146 in the house of bishops and 648 in the house of deputies. They will legislate under separate roofs and one house must ratify what the other votes before the action becomes a church law.

The new presiding bishop will be the fifteenth to hold such an office.

SEVEN CHILDREN DIE IN A MISSION BLAZE

Lewiston, Idaho, Oct. 4.—Seven children lost their lives in a fire that swept the boys' dormitory at the Catholic mission, on the Nez Perce Indian reservation, 25 miles east of here, last night. The fire was believed to have been caused from the explosion of a lamp.

There were 31 boys in the dormitory at the time of the fire and the heroic efforts of the sisters of St. Joseph and others at the institution were responsible for saving many of the boys' lives.

CIRCLEVILLE EAGLES

Get Revenge By Defeating the Washington Merchants Sunday By a 13 to 0 Score.

At Mason's field yesterday the Eagle football team got ample revenge from the Washington Merchants for last year's defeat, beating the visitors by a score of 13 to 0, and holding them to only one first down in the entire game. The field was quite muddy and the slippery ball caused numerous fumbles, Circleville losing the ball twice while making advances toward a touchdown.

With Weiler, Palm and Cupp out of the line-up Circleville had enough strength to completely outclass the visitors in all departments of the game. Washington was forced to kick eight times with an average of about thirty yards.

The game for next Sunday has not been closed yet and it is possible the team will take a road game. The attendance yesterday was very good considering the weather and big crowds are expected before the close of the season as some of the big teams will be brought here.

OCTOBER
Cease to call him sad and sober,
Merriest of months, October!
Patron of the bursting bins,
Reveller in wayside inns,
I can nowhere find a trace
Of the pensive in his face;
There is mingled wit and folly,
But the madcap lacks the grace
Of a thoughtful melancholy,
Spendthrift of the season's gold,
How he flings and scatters out
Treasure filched rom summer time!

With his amber afternoons
And his pendant poets' moons—
With his twilights dashed with rose
From the red-lipped afterglows
With his every piping breeze
Shaking from familiar trees
Apples of Hesperides—
With the chuckle, chirp, and trill
Of his jolly brooks that spill
Mirth in tangled madrigals
Down pebble-dappled waterfalls
Cease to call him sad or sober,—
He's a jolly dog, October!

and Other Poems."

Sauce for the Goose

An East Sider of foreign birth and short term of residence in this country prospered to the extent where he graduated from the ranks of the Forsythe street sidewalk merchants and became a regular business man, with a store and showcases and everything. Also, for the first time in his life he was able to start a bank account.

One day he was engaged on the telephone by the assistant cashier of the bank where he kept his checking fund.

"Mr. Abrams" stated the cashier, "I called you up to tell you that on the first day of this month your account appears overdrawn $108."

"So?" droned Mr. Abrams. "Say, young man, would you do it for me a favor?"

"Sure."

"Then, please, you should look at your books and tell me how stood the account on the foist day of last month."

In a minute or two the bank functionary was back at the 'phone.

"Oh, Mr. Abrams," he said, "on the first day of last month you had a balance to your credit of $322.25."

"So!" shouted Mr. Abrams. "Und did I call you up?"

MONGOLS HALT U. S. EXPLORERS

Order American Asiatic Expedition Out of Country.

Urga, Mongolia. — The Mongolian government has ordered the third Asiatic expedition of the American Museum of Natural History, under the leadership of Roy Chapman Andrews, to cease its exploration and scientific work and to leave Mongolian territory, alleging that Mr. Andrews has violated the terms of his agreement with Mongolian scientific organizations.

The Mongolian government alleges that besides carrying out his scientific work in the domain of paleontology, geology and zoology, Mr. Andrews' expedition also has engaged in topographical observation work and has employed a number of suspicious — in a military sense — persons.

Mr. Andrews also is accused of carrying on political propaganda and stirring up the Mongolians against "the Red Bolsheviks."

Long Having Trouble.

New York. — Expulsion of the Andrews expedition from Mongolia was not unexpected, officials of the American Museum of Natural History said, since Roy Chapman Andrews, the leader, recently reported "unusually difficult conditions" in his relations with the territorial authorities.

Museum officials are hopeful, despite the expulsion order, that the situation might be clarified before the expedition actually quits the territory.

Finds Sand-Dune Race.

Peking. — Stone implements and weapons of a race of men who lived thousands of years ago among sand dunes on the shore of a lake since swallowed up by the Gobi desert, have been found far in the interior of Mongolia by the expedition under Mr. Andrews.

These primitive men bored the shells and made ornaments of the eggs left by the dinosaur, the giant reptile that roamed the Asiatic uplands some ten million years ago, Mr. Andrews said. They used for the same purpose the shells of a gigantic ostrich, long since extinct.

Traces of Earliest Man.

Mr. Andrews believes his expedition has uncovered traces of the earliest type of men yet discovered. He has named them the "dune dwellers of Shabarack Ussu," using the name of the site of the find. "In these dunes dwellers," he said, "we believe we have found the earliest type of man in his development from the ape."

Since entering Mongolia last spring the expedition has traversed more than 4,000 miles, penetrating as far as the Altai mountains in far western Mongolia.

Learns Stranger Who Aided Him Is Brother

Lancaster, Pa. — "Hello, need any help?"

"Could stand a little—I'm kind of stuck with this thing."

An automobile bearing a California license had drawn up alongside a small truck that had developed trouble along the old Philadelphia turnpike in the vicinity of Witmer. The driver of the car had seen the plight of the truck driver and was willing to give assistance. The two men joined forces and soon had the truck in running order.

Then the owner of the truck noticed that his newly made acquaintance was a Californian.

"I've got a brother somewhere in California that I haven't seen for 17 years. Maybe you know him? He's Milton Harnish; I'm Aaron Harnish and live over here at Witmer."

"Maybe I do," replied the stranger, as he drove away.

Later in the day Aaron Harnish returned home and was surprised to find his acquaintance of the road sitting on the porch.

"Hello, Aaron," said the stranger. "I'm your brother, Milt. First time home in 17 years. I live in Los Angeles."

Prison Reform Laws Help to Empty Britain's Jails

London. — Probationary methods for adults and the "Borstal" treatment for young people have been responsible for a marked decrease in the population of British prisons, so much so that more than twenty jails in England and Wales, or one-third of the total, have been closed since 1914.

There are now only about forty prisons in use throughout the country and these are not fully occupied.

A home office official says fewer and fewer people are being committed to prison because the tendency now is to reform a man or woman if it be at all possible. The increased use of probationary methods has worked well, and in the opinion of the official the time is not far distant when prisons will be used only for habitual criminals with whom all attempts at reform have failed.
